COVID-19 RESPONSE

We at SCARF are committed to serving children and their non-offending caregivers in their ultimate time of need. During these uncertain times, our doors remained open to serve. We took precautionary measures to keep our staff and clients safe. During April and May our CAC interviewed 40 children, and the Children's Home housed 50 children. A global pandemic does not stop child abuse. You can trust that SCARF will remain mission-focused and will continue to help provide justice and restore hope for the most severely abused children.

Buckaroo Ball

As many of you know, we made the difficult but prudent decision to cancel the 14th Annual Buckaroo Ball. This event is SCARF's largest annual fundraiser with proceeds going directly to help cover our operating expenses. Every time our organization has been hit with adversity, we have always had a community to rally around us and pick us up. We are truly grateful for those sponsors and individuals who asked us to keep their sponsorship dollars even though we did not have an event. It is proof that the event is a collection of companies and individuals that want to help abused and neglected children in our community and drive our mission forward!

In the past few months, a new normal has emerged which has made families social distance and has kept children home from school. Due to these changes, many children are isolated and cut off from the nation's biggest reporters of child abuse — educators. These changes put children at a greater risk of abuse and or/neglect. If you suspect that a child is being abused, please don't hesitate to make a report, call 911 or 1-800-922-5330.
